Learn how to apply this world-famous, self-centered process to advance your career and maximize your profit potential—highly successful executives such as former CEOs Bernard Ebbers (WorldCom) and Jeffrey Skilling (Enron), can attest to its remarkable effectiveness.

Pride is a necessary excess for ALL corporateers. Put all aside, as you learn that you are the only one who matters. No hocus-pocus, die-and-go-to-heaven, mumbo-jumbo here!

Envy can propel us into worlds that we might never have thought possible. The status and abilities of others will be analyzed in direct relation to how much more they possess and how more deservedly you are.

Gluttony is at the core of the ever-increasing need for higher quarterly earnings. Don't be left behind. Exemplify this distinguishing skill in order to do business the way business is meant to be done.

Lust is one of the least sought after characteristics. Corporateers work hard. So, we must play hard too. End of discussion!

Anger is a fucking priority in the real world. Screw all those puffy-clouded, idealist-types. Corporateers get what they want when they damn well ask for it. Without this attribute corporateers become as weak as stupid-ass consumers.

Greed is a fundamental element of a corporateer's life. You will learn to see the true importance of material gain.

Sloth is a characteristic that shows us the role of those better made for toil. Outsourcing to places like Mexico, China, India and the Philippines is crucial to every corporateers success.

Register early! The 3-day workshop is priced at $14,743.99 per person. Your company may be eligible for special discounts (if your company has been charged with fraud, environmental abuse or any Federal crime you will be admitted free). Enrollment is limited to a small working group and some evening study is necessary for the first and second days. Attire for the workshop is available at www.cafeshops.com/corporateer. To receive a registration agreement and/or more information, please email 7habits@califoracle.com.
